New Delhi : AirAsia will soon connect 16 cities in India to more than 130 destinations across its network via Malaysia and Thailand, said reports.

Travellers from New Delhi, Amrit-sar or Kolkata are just one seamless connection away from Melbourne or the Gold Coast.

At the same time, Australians can glide through Kuala Lumpur to Kochi or Ahmedabad and soon to Nairobi in Africa, which are just a few of the choices on offer.

Recently, AirAsia announced it will be bringing an innovative cinematic in-flight experience for movie-goers to selected cinemas across India.

It wants to showcase its diverse and unique destinations as part of the movie-goer's experience at more than 130 cinemas across 12 cities over the next six months.

In addition to learning more about the airline, movie-goers will have the chance to win AirAsia flights to anywhere across the network.

In true Bollywood style, the airline is collaborating with more than 130 local travel content creators to showcase its destinations in Asia, Australia and beyond, highlighting what is available on a direct flight or just one connection away.
