A Monitor Report

Date: 01 August, 2022

Doha : AirlineRatings.com recently published the list of top 20 airlines of 2022 based on their safety rating and passenger comfort. Qatar Airways earned the top spot.

The full list of world's Top 20 Airlines of 2022 are as follows: Qatar Airways, Air New Zealand, Etihad Airways, Korean Air, Singapore Airlines, Qantas, Virgin Australia, EVA Air, Turkish Airlines, All Nippon Airways, Cathay Pacific Airways, Virgin Atlantic, Japan Air Lines, JetBlue, Finnair, Emirates, Hawaiian, Air France/KLM, Alaska Airlines, and British Airways.

The airlines are ranked with focus on two main areas. They must have a seven-star safety rating and demonstrate leadership in innovation for passenger comfort, explained AirlineRatings.com.

AirlineRatings.com Editor-in-Chief Geoffrey Thomas, said, "We are focused on leadership and airlines that innovate to make a real difference to the passenger experience."

"Of course, right now the airline industry is under unprecedented pressure as it strives to recover from the worst of the Covid-19 pandemic," he added.

Qatar Airways topped the list because of its "cabin innovation, passenger service, and its commitment to continue to operate throughout the Covid-19 pandemic," revealed the website.

Air New Zealand which secured the second position "is always at the forefront of airline awards because of its constant innovation and industry leadership", the article on AirlineRatings.com explained.

Etihad Airways, earning the third spot, won the Best Environmental Airlines Award for its leadership in the 787 Greenliner programme.
