Jeddah : Saudi Arabia's national carrier Saudia reported a 16 per cent year-on-year increase in its international passenger numbers in 2024, reaching 20 million, highlighting its growth and operational success, according to its performance report statement released on January 23.

Saudia also reported an 18 per cent increase in transit guests in 2024, compared to 2023, surpassing 9.3 million passengers.

The growth reflects the airline's efforts to strengthen global connections to the Kingdom, supporting the ambitious goals of Saudi Vision 2030.

About the growth, Ibrahim Al-Omar, Director General of Saudia Group, said that success in the competitive aviation industry requires a continuously evolving strategy, adding that the airline remains committed to achieving sustainable operational excellence while upholding the highest international standards.

"This remarkable growth is a testament to the dedication and hard work of Saudia's employees and the strategic optimization of our aircraft fleet to deliver exceptional service. We have also made significant strides in enhancing our services and enriching the overall guest experience," he said.

In its report, Saudia said that it carried 35 million guests throughout 2024, reflecting a 15 per cent year-on-year increase.
