Date: 16 June, 2022

Istanbul : Turkey's flag carrier Turkish Airlines carried 24 million passengers during the first five months of 2022, surpassing pre-pandemic levels, it announced on June 9.

The load factor was 73.5 per cent during the five-month period, including 72.5 per cent for international routes and 82.8 per cent for domestic ones.

The air carrier also carried 673,000 tons of cargo and mail, while the number of aircraft reached 376 as of May.

In May alone, the firm served 6.3 million passengers and carried 144,000 tons of cargo and mail.

"The total number of passengers, which was 5.9 million in May 2019, reached 6.3 million in the same period of 2022," it said in the statement.

Established in 1933, Turkish Airlines flies to 339 worldwide destinations in 335 cities, 284 international and 51 domestic, across 129 countries.
