

Turkish Technic, IndiGo sign maintenance deal for A320neo fleet

- A Monitor Report

Date: 16 February, 2025

Istanbul : During MRO Middle East 2025, IndiGo, the biggest airline in India, and Turkish Technic, one of the top providers of aircraft maintenance, repair, and overhaul (MRO) globally, inked a deal that covers the redelivery checks of IndiGo's more than ten Airbus A320neo aircraft.

Additionally, the businesses are in the advanced stages of negotiations for a new agreement that would cover the carrier's Airbus A320neo fleet's landing gear overhaul operations.

Redelivery check activities will be provided by Turkish Technic at Turkish Technic Istanbul Ataturk and Sabiha Gokcen Airport facilities as part of the deal.

One of the top providers of aviation services worldwide is Turkish

Technic, an association of Turkish Airlines group companies.

It employs 11,500 highly qualified personnel to perform comprehensive maintenance, repair, overhaul, modification, and reconfiguration services within the facilities of Istanbul Ataturk Airport, Sabiha Gokcen Airport, and Istanbul Airport on two different continents.

Turkish Technic will expedite the aircraft's redelivery checks by drawing on its decades of experience, guaranteeing smooth and prompt redelivery procedures.
