

SF Airlines launches new cargo route Chengdu-Dhaka

A Monitor Report

Date: 01 April, 2021

Dhaka : China's leading freighter SF Airlines launched a new international air cargo route connecting Chengdu of south-west China and Dhaka of Bangladesh, according to an announcement made by the cargo carrier on March 14.

The weekly freight services on the new Chengdu-Dhaka route commenced on March 13, being operated by B757-200 all cargo freighter, said SF Airlines spokesperson.

With the new cargo route, there will be a more efficient and stable air cargo channel between southwest China and South Asia, serving the demands of importers and exporters.

Bangladesh is the latest addition in the 77 destinations SF Airlines now operates to. Based in Shenzhen, SF Airlines is the aviation branch of China's SF Express with a fleet size of 63 cargo freighters.

The launch of the new Chengdu-Dhaka route marks a new milestone for SF Airlines, said a spokesperson. With it, they have expanded its global network further and strengthened their service capacity of global air cargo transport, the official added.
