Sharjah: Sharjah-based budget airline Air Arabia has brought back its Super Seat Sale, offering 500,000 discounted seats across its entire network.

The sale runs from February 17 to March 2, with travel valid between September 1, 2025, and March 28, 2026.

The sale offers travellers the opportunity to book flights starting from just Dh129.

The sale is expected to provide significant savings on Air Arabia's extensive flight network, which spans over 100 destinations across the Middle East, Asia, and Europe.

The budget carrier operates non-stop flights from multiple airports in the UAE, including Sharjah, Abu Dhabi, and Ras Al Khaimah.

The airline has advised passengers to book fast, as availability is limited and these low fares are expected to sell out quickly.

Late last week, the carrier announced its financial and operational results for the full year ending December 31, 2024, where Air Arabia reported a record pre-tax net profit of Dh1.6 billion, reflecting a 4 per cent increase compared to Dh1.5 billion it earned in 2023.

Total turnover for the year surpassed Dh 6.63 billion, marking an 11 per cent growth from Dh 6 billion in 2023.
