

Air India selects Thales' in-flight entertainment

- A Monitor Desk Report

Date: 20 February, 2024

Chennai: Tata group-owned Air India has selected Thales' in-flight entertainment solution. As per Thales, it will upgrade and retrofit Air India's current fleet of 40 Boeing 777s and 787s with its AVANT Up system, starting in 2024 and continuing through 2025.

Additionally, Thales will install the in-flight entertainment system on Air India's 11 new Airbus and Boeing aircraft with deliveries to commence in 2025.

According to Thales, its in-flight entertainment system offers possibilities for integrating a wide range of services and applications, such as an interactive 3D map and immersive route-based programming.

Thales' Select user interface enhances passenger engagement enabling guests to enjoy the most intuitive user experience to navigate across the catalogue of entertainment.
