

Dubai airshow 2025 unveils key agenda

- A Monitor Desk Report

Date: 02 July, 2025

Dhaka: Set to return from 17-21 November 2025 at Dubai World Central, the Dubai Airshow is gearing up for its most future-focused edition to date.

Now in its 19th iteration, the event has officially opened registration and will place a strong emphasis on innovation, cross-sector collaboration, and the development of next-generation talent across the aerospace and defence industries.

According to the latest data from the International Air Transport Association (IATA), the aviation sector contributes US$92 billion to the UAE's GDP - equivalent to 18.2 percent - with the Middle East's commercial aircraft fleet expected to grow at an annual rate of 5.1 percent over the next decade.

This event is expected to be one of the highlights of Dubai Airshow week, offering a mix of entertainment and informal networking opportunities, including drone shows, skydiving performances, music by renowned DJs, and premium hospitality services.

Furthermore, the show will offer a range of curated experiences designed to enhance connectivity and sector-wide insight.

The Aerospace Executive Club will host senior executives to discuss industry trends and strategic cooperation opportunities.

Major General Dr. Mubarak Saeed bin Ghafan Al Jabri, Executive Director of the Military Committee organising Dubai Airshow, said the event offers a platform to highlight the UAE's growing leadership in the aviation and defence sectors.

Timothy Hawes, Managing Director of Informa Markets, said, "Dubai Airshow has always been centred on driving the aviation and defence sectors forward.

He noted that the 2025 edition will be the most comprehensive and future-focused to date, bringing global industry players together through purposeful and unprecedented events that create more room for networking, showcasing pioneering technologies, and supporting the region's ambitious growth strategies."
