Emirates has introduced the Emirates Asia Pass, a convenient and flexible way for travellers to explore Southeast Asia with just one booking. Designed for those seeking cultural discovery and multi-city itineraries, the pass offers seamless travel across the region.

With the Emirates Asia Pass, customers can customise trips across Thailand, Indonesia, Vietnam, Malaysia, Cambodia, Singapore, and Laos—choosing from one to ten flights under a single ticket. Travellers can mix and match destinations and even revisit the same city if they wish.

The pass is available to anyone booking an Emirates international flight arriving in the listed Southeast Asian countries. It removes the hassle of multiple bookings on different airlines, allowing all flights to be managed easily on one platform.

Major gateways such as Singapore, Bangkok, and Kuala Lumpur offer smooth onward connections through partner airlines Bangkok Airways and Batik Air Malaysia. Emirates also operates services between Thailand and Vietnam, and Thailand and Cambodia, further enhancing regional access.

The Emirates Asia Pass can be purchased now via emirates.com, Emirates Contact Centres, retail and ticketing offices, or travel agents. For added flexibility, travellers can change booked flights for a nominal fee of USD 15 per change.
