

Emirates operating flights partially amid Middle East conflict

- A Monitor Desk Report

Date: 05 March, 2026

OPERATIONAL UPDATE

Dhaka: Emirates has confirmed that it is currently operating a reduced flight schedule until further notice. The move follows the partial re-opening of Middle East's airspace for the safe conduct of commercial flights.

On March 5-6, over 100 flights of the airline will depart from Dubai and return. These flights will transport passengers to their destinations as well as essential cargo such as perishables and pharmaceuticals.

Emirates will continue to gradually build back its flying schedule, subject to airspace availability and all operational requirements being met. Safety is their top priority, said the carrier in a notice.

"We continue to monitor the situation and adapt our operations accordingly. For now, customers should only proceed to the airport if they have a confirmed booking.”

“We urge all customers to check emirates.com and our official social media channels, where latest updates will be posted,” concluded the notice.
