Dubai: Emirates has signed an interline agreement with West Africa's largest airline, Air Peace, enhancing connectivity for passengers travelling to and from Nigeria. The partnership expands Emirates' footprint to 13 new cities in Nigeria with frictionless single-ticket travel and simplified baggage throughput.

Travelers booked on flights from Dubai to Lagos can access more of Nigeria, with onward connections to Asaba, Akure, Benin City, Calabar, Enugu, Ilorin, Kaduna and Owerri. The interline agreement will also benefit corporate travelers, connecting to additional cities in one of Africa's major economic hubs, including its capital city Abuja, Kano, Uyo, Port Harcourt and Warri.

Emirates' Dubai-Lagos route is operated with a Boeing 777-300ER. Emirates is one of only two airlines operating First Class into Lagos.

In Africa, the airline's footprint expands to over 223 regional points through 5 codeshare and 19 interline partners, providing better connection opportunities to both holiday destinations and emerging economic centers on the continent.
