Abu Dhabi: Etihad Airways' upcoming service to Atlanta, originally set to launch four times a week on July 2, has seen such strong demand that the airline will increase it to a daily flight starting November 1.

The enhanced frequency on the route between Zayed International Airport (AUH) and Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport (ATL) strengthens the UAE's only non-stop link to Atlanta, offering greater flexibility and convenience for travelers.

The service will be operated using the airline's latest Airbus A350-1000 featuring 44 Business class seats and 327 economy seats, promising extraordinary experiences and award-winning service for guests in all cabins.

Jurriaan Stelder, Senior Vice President Network and Alliances at Etihad Airways, said: "Since announcing our flights to Atlanta in November, we've seen great interest from guests, and that's why we have decided to step up to daily flights on this already very popular route.

"Connecting Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport, the world's busiest by passenger volume, with our growing global network means seamless one-stop connections to some of Atlanta's most popular South Asian destinations including Bengaluru, Chennai, Mumbai and Karachi.

It also offers more opportunities for guests to visit our wonderful home Abu Dhabi as part of a stopover break or a longer holiday."

Fares from Abu Dhabi to Atlanta start at AED 1,925 in Economy and AED 10,010 in Business Class*.

Atlanta, Georgia's dynamic capital, is a bustling metropolis and a major hub for business, technology, and transportation. The city blends Southern hospitality with a vibrant cultural scene, offering everything from professional sports and craft breweries to exceptional dining and entertainment. Beyond the city, Georgia is home to charming small towns, scenic landscapes, and a deep, diverse history waiting to be explored.

Flying with Etihad to the U.S. offers the unique advantage of the U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) Preclearance facility. By completing all U.S. customs and immigration formalities before boarding in Abu Dhabi, guests arrive in the States as domestic passengers, saving valuable time upon arrival. Guests can simply collect their bags and go or proceed seamlessly to their connecting flights.

The move to daily flights to Atlanta is part of Etihad's continued growth plans which include newly-announced routes to 13 other global destinations this year.
