Date: 01 July, 2022

Turkish Airlines and IndiGo have resumed their codeshare agreement that allows each airline to sell seats on other's flights, a statement said.

"Currently, Turkish Airlines operates a daily flight on Delhi-Istanbul and Mumbai-Istanbul routes, whereas IndiGo operates a daily flight on Delhi-Istanbul route and is also planning to add a second frequency from August 2022," said the joint statement of the two airlines.

The codeshare allows both airlines to give its passengers more choices, it mentioned.

For example, according to the codeshare, a passenger will be able to book a single ticket on Turkish Airlines's website to travel from Istanbul to Bengaluru, wherein the Istanbul-Mumbai leg will be on Turkish's flight while the Mumbai-Bengaluru flight will be on IndiGo's flight.

Such a passenger will receive its check-in baggage directly at the Bengaluru airport as he or she is travelling on a single ticket due to the codeshare agreement.
