Dhaka: Malaysia Airlines is launching 'Education on the Go' content as part of its in-flight entertainment offering.

On the development, Prof Madya Dr Shahrul Mizan Bin Ismail, Dean from Universiti Malaya Centre for Continuing Education, said, "We are thrilled to partner with Malaysia Airlines to bring Education on the Go to a wider audience. Be adaptable, flexible and never stop learning. The rate of change will never stop and neither should you."

The new initiative, introduced in collaboration with Universiti Malaya Centre for Continuing Education, will allow passengers travelling with the airline to access a selection of educational content, covering topics from lifestyle courses to business modules.

The new content is available under the Lifestyle category of the in-flight entertainment system's TV Show content selection.
