Following a very difficult period for the aviation industry due to the Covid-19 pandemic, Zela Aviation is proud to present its new corporate identity.

As aviation goes through substantial changes, leading the industry into a new era, Zela Aviation decided to re-modernize the company's look and create a refreshed logo to complement its redesigned brand-new website: www.zelaaviation.com.

Dark blue and silver colours are inspired from the company's former logo carried by Zela Aviation foundations and all through the 16 consecutive years of its presence in the industry.

The company's brand-new website offers a fresh and modern look with a very user-friendly navigation, leading visitors to its services in all efficiency.

"The past two years of aviation have been the most challenging years for the industry to which we have successfully adapted our business model, engaging in a range of new brokering activities, working in new regions of the world and successfully concluding new business arrangements whilst still servicing the needs of our existing and loyal customer base," said Zela Aviation Chairman Andreas Christodoulides.
