

I-94 no longer needed for travel to US

A Monitor Report

Date: 16 May, 2021

Washington, DC : Foreign visitors to the US arriving via air or sea no longer need to complete paper Customs and Border Protection Form I-94 Arrival/Departure Record or Form I-94W Nonimmigrant Visa Waiver Arrival/Departure Record.

Data on I-94 programme for US travel is readily available at anyone's fingertips. Travellers' arrival/departure information is collected automatically from electronic travel records by US Customs and Border Protection.

US Customs and Border Protection (CBP) now gathers travellers' arrival/departure information automatically from their electronic travel records. In addition, the National Travel and Tourism Office (NTO) of the International Trade Administration (ITA) collects, analyses, and disseminates overseas visitor arrivals statistics (I-94 Programme) for the US Travel and Tourism Statistical System.

ITA National Travel and Tourism Office announced 2 new data visualisation tools called the I-94 Visitor Arrivals Monitors, one based on country of residence (COR) and one based on country of citizenship (COC).

NTTO now displays data summaries and graphic visualisations on total overseas visits to the United States as well as visits by major world regions.

The datasets will report the most recent available data for international visitation

(overseas, Canada, and Mexico). The comprehensive I-94 Excel workbooks currently provided to the public on this site will also remain available.
