

Let Learn Aviation Academy shaping future of tourism professionals

- A Monitor Report

Date: 01 June, 2025

Dhaka : Let Learn Aviation Academy, a tourism industry-recognized training institution, announces the successful completion of five training cohorts and the ongoing progress of its sixth batch.

With a strong commitment to excellence in aviation and tourism education, the academy continues to empower students to build meaningful and sustainable careers in one of the world's fastest-growing sectors, said a release.

Founded with the mission of reducing unemployment through skill-based education, Let Learn Aviation Academy offers a comprehensive range of courses tailored to meet the evolving needs of the aviation and tourism industries. These include training in airline ticketing and reservation systems (GDS), visa processing, tour operations, and travel business development.

Upon successful completion, students receive certificates from both Sabre Bangladesh and Let Learn Aviation Academy, enhancing their employability in various aviation and travel sectors.

Courses are led by experienced instructors and professionals with real-world insights and global exposure.

Emphasis is given on practical learning through live GDS systems such as Sabre, Amadeus, and Galileo.

Internship placement assistance, career guidance, and job-seeking support provided to all graduates.

A mix of online and offline classes, recorded sessions, and live support ensures accessibility for all learners.

Let Learn Aviation Academy has emerged as a beacon of quality aviation education in Bangladesh. The institute has garnered praise for its structured curriculum, modern teaching methodologies, and its role in building a skilled, confident workforce ready for employment in airlines, airports, travel agencies, and hospitality businesses-or to launch independent ventures in the travel industry, concluded the release.
