Bangkok : Tourists booking flights to Thailand could win free round-trip domestic flights, enabling them to visit the Southeast Asian country's lesser-known gems, thanks to a new scheme proposed by the Tourism and Sports Ministry.

Yet to gain cabinet approval, the so-called "Buy International, Free Thailand Domestic Flights" campaign is set to make 200,000 complimentary round-trip flights available to travelers who book international flights to Thailand between September and November 2025, either directly with airlines or through travel agencies.

Six of the country's major carriers, Bangkok Airways, Nok Air, Thai AirAsia, Thai Airways, Thai Lion Air, and Thai Vietjet have so far confirmed they will participate in the deal, which amounts to THB 1,750 (EUR 40) in money off a one-way ticket, or THB 3,500 (EUR 80) towards a round-trip journey. Checked baggage is also included to a value of 20kg.
